2 RPOST COMPANY TRADEMARK POLICIES

TRADEMARK GRAMMAR

A trademark is an adjective that describes a noun. Therefore, WHENEVER you use an RPost trademark in text (i.e., not as a title, but in a letter, e-mail, or marketing document), please make sure you use the term as an adjective.

For example, write, “send a Registered Email™ message” or, “try the Registered Email™ service” or perhaps, “use the Registered Email™ system” rather than “send a Registered Email” or “try Registered Email”.

Note, you are adding the noun, “message” or “service” or “system” of which “Registered Email” is describing, and that noun should begin with a lowercase letter. For example, the “s” in “system” or “service” should be lowercase as well as the “m” in message. (The exception would be when using in a title).

While you must properly use the trademark as an adjective followed by a noun in all contexts such as letters, e-mail, or marketing documents, you generally need to only include the appropriate “TM” trademark markings in the first display of the trademark in a document. An exception to this is that for press releases, the trademark symbols should not be used in headlines, taglines, nor in the first sentence of the press release.

It should be referenced that, “The listed trademarks are owned by RPost Communications Limited.”

4 LOGO COLOR VARIATIONS

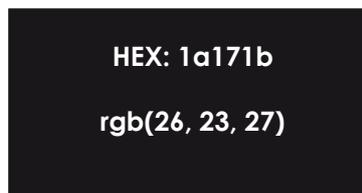

To simplify the usage of logo on various backgrounds, we provide full-color logo and reverse (knockout) logos.

Full-color logo – this logo is the primary logo should be used for brochures, word templates and all the marketing or branding materials. The background color for full-color logo should be white or variants of colors that have enough contrast to make the logo visible.

Reverse (knockout) logo – this logo is the secondary logo should be used on the images and videos where there is a dark color background.

COLORS OF FULL-COLOR LOGO

USAGE OF FULL COLOR LOGO

Full-color logo is the primary logo for white and light color backgrounds

REVERSE (KNOCKOUT) LOGOS

The Reverse (Knockout) logos with Red Circle White R or White Circle Red R or White Circle Transparent R should be used on dark backgrounds.
